

Dear Valued Clients, and the City of Dallas:

It is fair to say that the last two weeks have been unprecedented in the history of our communities and our country as a whole. At GPM, we are taking the threat of COVID19 to the health of our attorneys and staff very seriously and are following guidance from the CDC, WHO, and state and local authorities to ensure their continued safety. One of our operational cornerstones at GPM is flexibility; our attorneys can always work remotely which has let them, along with our fantastic staff, continue business as usual during this tumultuous time.

At GPM, we stand ready to serve our clients in the same way we have always done: by providing practical, clear, concise, and timely advice that takes account of your personal or business circumstances. Whether it is to provide detailed advice regarding contractual issues, draft or amend your wills or financial plans, or fight your case in the spate of litigation which is sure to follow this pandemic, we are here for our existing clients and ready to help new ones. We are fully equipped to interact with existing and new clients in whatever manner is most comfortable, from phone calls to email to video communications, so you can stay home and save lives without sacrificing access to legal advice in the continuously evolving circumstances.

We thank our loyal clients for our relationships, we are proud to continue to serve you. And while we wish it were under better circumstances, we look forward to welcoming new clients and helping to counsel you through the current and imminent challenges.

In the words of Theodore Roosevelt:

“Much has been given us, and much will rightfully be expected from us. We have duties to others and duties to ourselves; and we can shirk neither. We have become a great nation, forced by the fact of its greatness into relations with the other nations of the earth, and we must behave and be seen as a people with such responsibilities.”

On behalf of the Firm, I wish you all good health and a speedy recovery physically, mentally, and economically.

Sincerely,

Troy
